I am Kristeen Guerra and I'm Tech production student and I'm a digital artist. I started on my Dad's computer when I was around 6 years old we had an old apple computer. The computer was a big and bulky computer. I use to play little art games on it and I would draw flowers, normal little kid things but I would eventually draw some creepy things and some characters from some horror movies me and my dad would watch. Then around middle school I kept designing scary characters and I started to experiment with special affects makeup. I started to draw some of these characters on Paint (windows app) and create them with makeup. I hope to become a makeup artist for films and tv-shows. I will create some of my characters through illustrator, Photoshop and other medias. I can take photographs of some of these characters because I also am interested in photography. My photography started when I was around 12 years old. We had gone on a trip to Santo Domingo and my parents had given me an older camera of theirs. I had always shown in interest in photography but I didn't take many pictures until I got an actual camera once I got an actual camera I took some pretty pictures of nature. Which I also manipulate some of those pictures on photoshop.
